

Your Right To Disagree With A Decision & Your Right To Privacy

Your Right To Question Decisions

You have the right to disagree with a decision made about you.

Start Where the Problem Is

Start by talking with the staff who help you, or their supervisor.

Formal Problem Solving

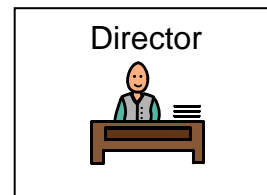

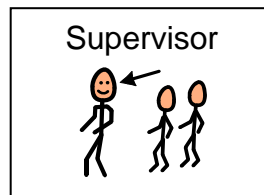

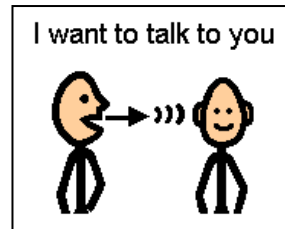

If you are not satisfied, write your complaint, and share it with the person in charge of the program.

Talking to the Superintendent

You are free to talk to the Superintendent at any time.

Other Options

You can also call the Link Line, or anyone else you choose, to help you with your problem.

Your Privacy Rights

Information about you is private. You have the right to say “yes” or “no” to people who want to talk about you, or look at your personal files.
